

Guard Roman Catholic Churches

NEW YORK, February 22.—(By the Associated Press)—A police guard was posted today at every Roman Catholic church in Greater New York on orders issued by Chief Inspector Leahy. The policemen were instructed to search persons carrying suspicious bundles from entering the churches and also to prevent loitering. Inspector Leahy refused to give any reason for this unusual action.

Monsignor Lavelle, vicar general of the diocese, said today the church authorities had not asked police protection for the churches and he believed that action was spontaneous on the part of the police department.

The sexton of one downtown Catholic church said there had been a series of thefts from poor boxes and candle depositaries in various Catholic churches and that the guards had been posted in an effort to capture the marauders. He said he knew of no threats to burn churches, such as have been received in Canada, where more than a dozen Catholic edifices have been destroyed by fire and where, according to advices from Montreal, insurance rates on churches, schools and religious institutions have been ordered increased from 32 to 50 per cent.

Filibuster On Shipping Measure Continues

WASHINGTON, February 22.—(By the Associated Press)—Senate opponents of the administration shipping bill were prepared to carry on today for their fourth successive day of filibuster against the measure.

Although before the senate recessed at nine o'clock last night the filibuster, which had been maintained air-tight throughout the day, was relaxed to permit adoption of conference report on the army and district of Columbia appropriation bills, this marked only a lull in the obstructive program.

Adoption of the reports was said to have removed the last possible excuse for an extra session after March 4.

Pending for a vote when the senate met today was a motion to take up again the shipping bill. This motion displaces the previously pending motion to lay aside the shipping bill and take up the "filled" milk bill. Conceding that the administration group had enough votes to put the shipping bill back before the senate, leaders among the bill's opponents said they intended to prevent by speech-making a vote on the motion at least for a day or so. They then may continue the direct filibuster against the bill itself or more displace it with some other measure.

Sweeping Charges Made Against Klan In Senate; Right Of Texan To Take His Seat Challenged

Nation Honors Washington

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT OBSERVES WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

WASHINGTON, February 22.—(By the Associated Press)—Federal government activities in all branches with the exception of congress, were suspended today for the observance of Washington's birthday. Both senate and house remained at their task of cleaning up the legislative job before adjournment of the session March 4.

The official celebration of the day here centered in ceremonies at Washington Monument at which the governors of all states had been invited to listen in by radio. Laying of wreaths at the base of the memorial by Secretary Weeks and other high government officials as well as representatives of a number of patriotic organizations and the paying of military honors to the memory of the first president marked the ceremonial program at the monument.

Among those making the annual pilgrimage today to Mt. Vernon were Washington Boy Scouts, to lay a wreath on the tomb. A floral tribute from Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador was placed on the tomb yesterday by Charles Chilton, counselor of the embassy, acting for the ambassador who is confined with illness.

WASHINGTON, February 22.—

(By the Associated Press)—Sweeping charges against the Ku Klux Klan and its officers were made today in papers filed with the senate challenging the right of Earl B. Mayfield to take his seat in the next congress as a senator from Texas.

Excessive and illegal expenditure of money by the Mayfield forces, fraud in counting the ballots and other irregularities were charged in the contest petition which asked for a recount. It was contended that George E. B. Paddy actually was elected but in the event the senate does not so decide, it was asked in the petition that Mr. Mayfield nevertheless be barred from taking his seat.

The election contest and its accompanying charges were filed by Mr. Paddy who ran for senator last November in Texas as a Republican and independent Democrat and who accused Mr. Mayfield during a bitter campaign with being the candidate of the Klan as well as of the regular Democratic organization.

The Klan was charged in the petition with concealing its real designs under a cloak of patriotic pretensions, in order to hide plans to "subject the government of the constitution to the invisible empire" and with conspiracy to evade, violate and defeat federal and state laws. It was further charged that the organization had attempted "prostitution of the Christian religion" and had resorted to use of "brute force" intimidation, and "immoral and lawless practices."

Debt Bill Approved

The bill now goes to the president for signature.

When And Where Will It End?

THIS question concerning the French occupation of the Ruhr concerns the big powers of the world. The French are still gambling with human passions. Having failed to gain at first just what they demanded, they are exhibiting greater pressure.

When and where will it end? David Lloyd George, former premier of England, in a special cable to The Sun-Times, which will appear Sunday, expresses his views on the subject and gives an intimate picture of European viewpoints on the all-absorbing questions.

BERLIN, February 22.—(By the Associated Press)—A dispatch from Essen says that General DeGroot has issued an order forbidding the entry of German cabinet ministers into the occupied area. The general has instructed the police and other authorities to arrest any minister disobeying the order and to bring the offender before the military court.

Fire Chief 22 Years

CLEVELAND, O., February 22.—(By the Associated Press)—George Washington's birthday observance was the occasion for a double celebration by the Cleveland firemen, who today paid tribute to their seventy-fifth anniversary of their chief, George Alexander Wallace, said to be the oldest active fire fighter in America. Chief Wallace, who will complete his twenty-second year as head of the department on March 4, became a fireman fifty-five years ago. As chief he has never missed a big fire.

Despite his advanced age and his long and strenuous service, he is active, and although eligible to a $2,750 yearly pension, says he expects "to remain chief of the fire department for many more years."

McKinney Is Step Nearer To Freedom

CINCINNATI, O., February 22.—(By the Associated Press)—Leroy McKinney, of Cincinnati, was a step nearer freedom today when Judge Wade, Cushing of the state district court of appeals here today ordered the filing of an entry reversing the decision of the common pleas court of Clinton county which found McKinney guilty of killing Policeman McCright and sentenced him to life imprisonment.

The case was remanded to the common pleas court of Clinton county which is expected to take action late today definitely annulling the indictment against McKinney and forever clearing his name of murder in connection with the death of McCright.

Mrs. McKinney, the wife of the man who served five months for a crime he had not committed, presented the request from the court of Judge F. M. Cleveland at Wilmington, asking for a retrial of the case. She will leave at noon today from here for Wilmington, where she will present the order of Judge Cushing to Judge Cleveland, who is expected immediately to order an entry, dismissing the case against McKinney.

It was said here today the release of McKinney from the penitentiary, will not free him from the custody of the law, as he is still facing a $2,000 fine imposed in a liquor law violation case. This fine, it was said, must be paid or set aside before he can be a free man.

Judge Cushing opened the office of the court on a legal holiday, Washington's birthday, to help Mrs. McKinney.

Remington A "Society Bootlegger", Police Claim

LOS ANGELES, CALIF., February 22.—(By the Associated Press)—Federal prohibition agents today joined the police in the search for the slayers of Earle Remington, electrical engineer, shot down in his own doorway a week ago tonight.

Their entry came after a declaration by the police that the widow Mrs. Virginia Lola Stone Remington had told them the dead man was a "society" bootlegger and after the police had found and questioned, temporarily released a man who admitted having operated three stills for the engineer.

The police also said they had located a large quantity of liquor, said to have been in Remington's possession, but the chief interest of the federal officers was believed to rest in the police statement that one of Remington's note books, containing 200 names and records of sales had come into their possession.

The officers took nearly 100 gallons of bootleg whiskey from the basement of the Remington residence.

Remington was said also to have had some bonded whiskey in his possession and an angle of the investigation was an effort to learn whether he had any direct dealings with rum runners operating out of Canadian and Mexican ports.

Search for other persons believed to have been connected with the illicit liquor activities credited to Remington, led the detectives to revive their earlier theory—once discarded—that he was a victim of a bootlegger's war, either because he cut the price, they said, or because he bought a large quantity of smuggled bonded liquor and "paid" for it with a check upon which payment could not be made.

Movie Stars Organize 'To Fight Commercialism'

LOS ANGELES, CALIF., February 22.—(By the Associated Press)—Informal organization of a group of motion picture actors to combat "commercialism" and the resultant dwarfing of artistic growth in film production, was completed at a conference which ended here early today with Mary Pickford, Norma Talmadge, Constance Talmadge, Douglas Fairbanks, Charles Chaplin, Harold Lloyd and David Wark Griffith, or their representative signers of a "declaration of independence" from producers and exhibitors of "machine made" films.

The text of the declaration follows: "Certain combinations and groups of persons and corporations are being formed in the motion picture business which will dwarf the artistic growth of the motion picture and we, who are directly responsible to the public for the merit of our productions and having a profound regard for this responsibility, deem it necessary at this time to form an organization which will protect the independent producer and the independent exhibitors against these commercial combinations and enable us to keep faith with the public."

Joseph M. Schenk, husband of Norma Talmadge and motion picture producer, phoned the name of his wife and that of her sister, Constance, upon the "declaration."

The conference, which lasted five hours, ended at one o'clock this morning.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Is prohibition expensive? And how has the Treasury overcome the $500,000,000 loss in taxes which used to be collected on beverages? Does the government get any tax revenue out of the liquor illegally sold by "bootleggers" themselves?

These questions go to the root of the problem and while it is true that from a moral standpoint a David Lawrence negative answer to each would still fail to deter the crusaders who believe the greatest good to the greatest number cannot be measured in dollars and cents, there is a widespread interest in these material phases.

First of all prohibition enforcement itself is not expensive but really profitable financially to Uncle Sam. Nine million dollars was appropriated by Congress to enforce the Volstead law. The Treasury balance sheet on prohibition for the fiscal year ending last June was as follows:

Federal fines collected during the year, not including collections in the District of Columbia and Alaska $2,791,365.21

NEW CRUSADE REVIVAL WILL OPEN TONIGHT

Evangelist Anderson Looks For Record Meeting; Warmly Welcomed By Committee

After an intensive preparatory campaign, covering about four weeks of time and the entire city of Portsmouth, the big meetings carrying the name of the New Crusade and headed by Rev. George Wood Anderson, assisted by B. D. Ackley and Walter R. Jenkins, will open this evening. Ten churches, five Methodist, Trinity, Bigelow, Manly, Franklin Avenue and Terminal; three Baptist, First, Calvary and Kendall Avenue; First Christian and the United Brethren are cooperating in the movement. From all reports of those connected with the meeting, the seating capacity of the new Universal garage will be taxed, although preparations have been made to take care of more than three thousand people. Gathering sentiment here and there among the church people a general expression of optimism as to the accomplishments of the meeting is heard. Expressions like these are heard: "I don't believe that garage will hold 'em." "I'm going early, because I want to get a seat." "The big problem will be finding room for all those who will want to attend."

When Rev. H. S. Tillis, who has been in charge of the cottage prayer meetings all over the city, was asked what he thought of the outlook for a great revival he replied: "Coming great." Then he went on to say that the prayer meetings had been well attended and that people had responded willingly and enthusiastically. That there had been considerable awakening to the value of prayer and that the folks had put their soul into the preparation, was evidenced, and Rev. Tillis said continuing, "when folks start praying, they generally start working to answer the prayers and they are praying for these meetings."

"I think the outlook is very fine, indeed," was the comment of Rev. L. N. Knyser of the Calvary Baptist church, who is also chairman of the Ministerial Association. "From what I have seen and heard, the garage will be filled each night," he said, "and I am looking for great results from the New Crusade."

"This is one of the greatest things that ever came to Portsmouth," was the comment of John T. Breese, general chairman of the New Crusade Committee. "I think I'll just lay off, at least all the time that's necessary and take it all in." Mr. Breese has been one of the most ardent and enthusiastic boosters of the meeting and is right on the job to see that things are going along smoothly.

Gilbert F. Dadds, Secretary of the General Committee, stated that he never saw things look so fine for any sort of a campaign.

Thos. D. Smith, superintendent of the First Baptist Bible school, states that he is well pleased with the outlook.

C. M. Howland, superintendent of First Christian Bible School said the same.

Richard W. Sharpe, advance man for Dr. Anderson stated that the tabernacle facilities were the best of any they had ever had and at any meetings since he has been attached to the company.

W. R. Jenkins, song leader for the party, said "It looks fine to me."

Allertan has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiable and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., the discoverer of Allertan, who for many years suffered the tortments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allertan decisively cures this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance. Chorus Rehearses
These remarks were made just as the big chorus was being arranged properly at the rehearsal last night, and it certainly was pleasing to see more than two hundred singers gathered for the first rehearsal last evening, when Mr. Jenkins, master of his art, led the folks in a wonderful series of gospel hymns.

The pleasing part of the evening came when the train from Columbus came in on time and brought Dr. Anderson, his wife and baby boy.

Dr. Anderson Arrives
Chairman J. T. Breese, Secretary Gilbert Dadds, Thos. D. Smith, Dr. C. A. Winchell and A. P. Haight formed the party that met them at the train and heartily welcomed them to the city. They were taken down to the garage where they looked over the big chorus and later to the Washington hotel, which will be headquarters for the company during their stay here.

Dr. Anderson when asked about what he thought of Portsmouth and the coming crusade, said: "Do you know that I have been looking forward to this meeting with more pleasure than any I have held recently. I am glad to be here and from what I can see already, I think we are in for a great meeting." Dr. Anderson and his family seemed to be about the happiest folks in the party and they were taken in charge by Mr. Sharpe, who will remain for a day or so before going on to arrange for the next meetings.

Young Peoples' Rally
Saturday Evening
The George Wood Anderson Crusade Young Peoples' Committee made up of representatives of the various co-operating churches met last night at the First Baptist Church and concluded arrangements for the young people's rally on Saturday night of this week when Dr. Anderson gives his famous lecture "Bald Heads, Outside and In" at the Universal Garage Company Building on Gallia Street.

Delegations from young people's organizations from the city who will be guests at the services. Groups from the high school, from the various societies of the churches and others will meet at 6:30 at the First Baptist Church and go in a body to the place of the meetings. Fred Hamilton is chairman of the Young Peoples' Committee.

Among the plans are included the union rally of all the young people's societies of the churches at the First Baptist church promptly at six o'clock each Sunday evening of the crusade services. Following the union services of the societies, the young people will go to the tabernacle. A section in the auditorium will be reserved for them.

Prohibition

the amount of the tax rate that used to be imposed on liquor sales when the traffic was legal. This eighty million was held up in the courts for awhile until a Supreme Court decision made clear the fact that the old internal revenue laws had not been repealed by the Volstead Act. Now the Treasury Department is arranging for hearings so that interested parties may present their claims for relief before disbursement of the money is made.

Even if only half this amount is ever collected, it would still show a big margin of gain for the government over the cost of enforcement. The several states, of course, collect their own fines and if prohibition is only paying its way so far as federal expenditure is concerned, it may be said with truth that in the states it is making money.

Take the case of Ohio, for example, which spent $210,000 in enforcement of prohibition and collected $2,600,000 in fines. This item was divided between the state and the county treasuries so that the communities which did the prosecuting received about $1,300,000 last year out of prohibition taxes.

There is no way of telling exactly the sums that have been recovered by the Treasury in income tax cases. One case is pending in which a "bootlegger" made out an income tax return for $6,000 when he had in reality an income of $3,000,000. Curiously enough the Department of Justice in some instances has been unable to get the evidence to convict individuals guilty of participating in illegal liquor traffic but has managed to tip off the Treasury Department so that investigation could be made whether fraudulent income tax returns were made out.

Prosecutions have been instituted for perjury in making out false income tax returns, when in reality there wasn't enough proof available to get a conviction under the Volstead law. Mrs. Mary Walker Willbrandt, assistant Attorney General, has direct supervision not only over the prohibition cases but the investigation of income tax frauds so the two frequently go hand in hand.

Usually the "bootleggers" are afraid of the criminal features of the income tax law. They may be able to escape with a fine or a light sentence on a Volstead law violation but an income tax fraud is a much more serious matter. Many "bootleggers" fear that if they deposit their money in the banks, the government will detect the size of their incomes. Some keep their cash in safety deposit vaults but what they do not realize is that the government has many ways of keeping track of purchases. Most states require registration of ownership of automobiles. This information is accessible to the federal government. One clue leads to another. A suspect who returns an income tax statement showing he is engaged in some small retail business, for instance, but who has bought or sold large quantities of securities or who has engaged in large real estate transactions can often be caught as the government has no difficulty in getting the necessary information from business houses because it has the right to inspect books under a variety of existing statutes.

The "bootlegger" who hoards his cash gets little joy out of life. Many a violator of the law, who has made huge profits has put government agents on the scent without knowing it simply by extravagant purchases in a city or town where he is well known. There are many who are escaping detection but as the government departments coordinate their activities and one bureau helps out the other the chances of getting at the incomes of the "bootleggers" will improve daily.

Every man must state his business and sources of income in his income tax return and swear to it. Many "bootleggers" have an ostensible business and make regular returns to the government but they conceal their true source of income. There is no way to detect fraud simply by examining the income tax return itself. Suspicion develops as a rule out of some circumstance which starts the investigator on his trail and one of the first things he checks up is the type of business in which the suspect is engaged.

It's a long and tedious process but the government is practicing patience and getting results.

Yet if the amount expended to enforce prohibition is offset by the total of fines imposed and even if the government does recover a good bit of money from "bootleggers" through the income tax investigations, the face still remains that on the liquor actually bought and sold through illicit channels, no internal revenue taxes are collected and the $500,000,000 loss in taxes has not been wiped out by any taxes on soft drinks.

Prohibition might have had a hard time if the European war had not come and gotten the American people used to paying three and four billion dollars annually in taxes. Indeed, the income tax laws came opportunistically for the prohibitionist. An item of $500,000,000 can be swallowed up in the budget by a manipulation of other items and a change in tax rates. And when the present system of taxation on specific items gets too burdensome there is always the sales tax idea whereby the expenditure in taxation can be continued until some other substitute is offered.

To the outcry that the drink bill of the nation has decreed #1, the prohibitionists point to the increases in saving bank deposits and the large volume of transactions in the retail stores of the nation. But to the complaint that a large amount of taxes which used to be collected on wines, whiskeys, beer and other alcoholic beverages is not now forthcoming, there is no answer. It is lost. And therein lies one of the factors which ultimately may have a good deal to do with the movement for legalizing the sale of beverage which is not intoxicating but which contains more than the one and one-half per cent of alcohol specified by the Volstead law as the upper limit.

To know how good a cigarette really can be made you must try a—

Practically all the suggestions for modification which have been introduced in Congress in the last two years have had coupled with them some plan for raising revenue. The idea that the soldier boys could be paid by a tax on some light beverage has many more friends in Washington than might appear on the surface. Opinion differs as to what extent any legislation raising the alcohol content above one and one-half per cent would have but there are certain basic facts which underlie the whole controversy, and these will be continued in tomorrow's dispatch.

BENEFIT CONCERT FOR HOPEDALE HOME AT P. H. S. FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Just A Few of the Babies Born in Hopedale Rescue Home

The mother of the baby in the center of the picture above, could neither read nor write when she was taken into the Home, but when she was dismissed from the Home later she could do both.

A visit to Hopedale Rescue Home, where one is able to find just such beautiful, bouncing babies as the ones pictured above, will convince anyone that the cause is one worthy of all possible help that can be given. Everyone will be given a chance to help when a splendid musical program will be presented Friday afternoon in Portsmouth High School Auditorium under the auspices of the Stephen Lindsey Guild of the First Presbyterian Church. The sum of $2,500 is needed to pay for the finishing touches to the new Hopedale Rescue Home, on Middle Road, New Boston. This new home is badly needed as the present dwelling used for the Home is entirely too small for the needs, making it necessary to send some girls to Columbus and Cincinnati.

The Rescue Home is for wayward girls who find in Hopedale a haven of rest and protection when all else seems against them. Mrs. Lila Johnson is in charge of the Rescue Home and since she has been matron 208 babies have been born there.

The new Home, started in 1917, is expected to be completed in a few months. The sum of $2,500 needed for this work must be available by July.

Tickets for the musical Friday are selling for $1, but many business men who are interested in the work of the home are paying $5 and more for the tickets. Anyone wishing to contribute to this worthy cause can send their money to Mrs. Chester Lloyd or any member of the Stephen Lindsey Guild. Mrs. Lloyd is treasurer of the organization in charge of the Home.

The committee in charge consists of Attorney Russell McCurdy, J. I. Marsh and Anson Jones, who have secured an orchestra to furnish music during the early hours of the evening. Dancing will be enjoyed until a late hour.

Discuss New Features For Lucasville Fair; Dates Are Fixed By Board

A dog show and an athletic show are two of the new features planned for the 1923 Scioto County Fair. They were discussed Wednesday afternoon at the semi-monthly meeting of the Scioto County Agricultural Society. In addition to the dog show and athletic card Battery B and the Combat Train 154th Field Artillery will be invited to visit the fair grounds and give exhibition drills with their field equipment.

The dates for the fair this year will be Wednesday to Saturday to Saturday-August 8, 9, 10 and 11. This year the fair starts on Wednesday and closes on Saturday instead of opening on Tuesday and closing on Friday as it has in previous years. By holding the fair on Saturday it is thought that many who enjoy the Saturday half holiday will avail themselves of the opportunity to attend the fair on the closing day.

George McMahon and Henry Hutel were named to make all plans for the Dog Show. Prizes are to be given for the best canines exhibited. The Portsmouth Poultry and Pet Stock Association will also be urged to have exhibits of pet stock so that some of the prize winning poultry of the county can be shown.

The Ohio Fish and Game Division will also be asked to have another of their exhibits at the fair. Deputy Game Protector Frank Voorhees will be urged to make an exhibit of Theodore Roosevelt Game Preserve birds and animals.

The following members were present at the meeting: P. H. Harsha, J. S. Violet, John W. Spriggs, George McMahon, John Shannon, Walter I. Gahn, J. H. Appel, Dr. J. N. Thomas, L. Taylor, J. S. Moulton, Charles Bradshaw and Clyde Brant.

See "The Delicious Little Devil" At The Lyric Theatre This Week

Her idea of a good time was to go driving with the butcher boy in his delivery truck. She had joy-riden in this manner for many months and expected to for many more, but just then fate stepped in and made the teeming beauty the toast of New York.

How the teeming idol met the situation makes a highly interesting little film play called "The Delicious Little Devil," at the Lyric this week.

Miss Mae Murray is the bright star who plays the role of Molly McGuire, the former sweetheart of the butcher boy. She brings to the role all the charm and vivacity that has made her one of the most popular players in the country.

Included in the excellent supporting cast is Rodolph Valentino, the matinee idol of the country. Valentino plays the part of a young man about town who falls madly in love with Molly when she becomes the bright café flame around which numerous motes swarm. "The Delicious Little Devil" is one of those human little stories that holds your interest from the start. Molly is a charm, after that you will cry with, laugh with, and love with. Miss Murray, by virtue of her training with the Ziegfeld Follies plays the part of a dancer better than anyone else on the screen. site, and it took me exactly ten seconds to realize that henceforth, after I had escaped from this present dilemma, I should have to move my pieces with greater circumspection across the chessboard of life. I recognized him at once. His hair had grayed, but his keen eyes, his forceful mouth and his long, lean face were all unchanged. He was the one man in the old days whom we had all feared, the man whose retirement from the Yard we had celebrated with a small but very select little dinner at the Cafe Royal. My old hatred of him blazed up as I realized the voluntary nature of his return to the career which he had abandoned. I made up my mind then that if ever the time came when I should be the arbiter of his fate, this man should have no quarter.

The street was a short one, and within 50 yards of a bustling thoroughfare. Nevertheless at that early hour there were not many people about, and as it afterward transpired, witnesses of the spirited few seconds which followed were almost non-existent. It has always been my principle that the best form of defense is prompt attack. While the inspector, therefore, stood with his mouth open ready to inform me that he held a warrant for my arrest, I shot him through the right shoulder. He staggered and would have fallen but for his two companions. Before they had propped him up against the railings and recovered from their surprise, I was round the corner of the street and in an empty telephone booth in the adjacent post-office sub-station.

where I paused for some slight refreshment, I engaged a taxicab to drive me to Linkside, the country retreat of a certain Mr. James Stanfield, situated on the fringe of Working Golf Links. William, my man-of-all-work, was digging in the garden, and welcomed me with the bucolic indifference of his class. Janet, his niece, admitted me promptly to the house and received my unexpected visit with a respectful lack of curiosity that was a hereditary trait of her earlier training as parlor-maid. She lit the fire in the little sitting-room and listened to my few remarks with imperturbable pleasantness. Yet on that morning, perhaps more than any other in my life, I felt a shadow of uneasiness concerning Janet. I watched her in silence, stooping over the fire, a young woman with a figure whose perfection her ill-fitting corsets and clothes failed altogether to conceal. Pale of complexion, with introspective, queer-colored eyes, close-lipped, and with a mass of well-brushed glossy brown hair. When she stood up, a little flushed with her exertions, she faced me for a moment, waiting for orders. I am not a susceptible man, but it struck me for the first time that the girl was more than ordinary good-looking.

"Nothing has happened during my absence, Janet?" I inquired.
"Nothing at all, sir," she replied.
"Nobody called?"
"There was a rate-collector," she said. "He wanted to know your address in London."

"Did you tell him?"

BEFORE THEY HAD RECOVERED FROM THEIR SURPRISE, I WAS ROUND THE CORNER OF THE STREET AND IN AN EMPTY TELEPHONE BOOTH IN THE ADJACENT POSTOFFICE.

I have always maintained that the telephone company is an unjustly abused institution. On this occasion, at any rate, my defense of them was justified. Within thirty seconds of asking for Number 1000 Hop, I was speaking to the warehouseman, whose duty it was to dust and keep in good order my samples of leather—which, to tell the truth, were rarely used. My few rapid words of instruction spoken, I turned my attention to those ingenious devices which, although savoring a little of the trickster, have on more than one occasion assisted me in preserving my liberty. I turned my overcoat, which in place of a suburban garment, now became a covering of light gray tweed with a half-hell behind. I rolled my trousers up to the knee, disclosing very well cut brown-leather garters. I left my black hat in the telephone-box, replacing it with a tweed cap. I removed with a little pang of regret the most wonderful dark mustache that the hand of artist had ever fashioned, adjusted a pair of dark spectacles and made my exit.

There was some commotion in the street outside, and the freckled young lady behind the counter paid scant attention to me.

"The telephone service doesn't get any better," I said pleasantly. "It's taken me nearly ten minutes to get two numbers."

She accepted my complaint with equanimity. Her attention was still on the street outside.

"What is it? A fire?" I asked.

She shook her head.

"I don't know," she answered.

I thereupon made my way into the street. There was a little crowd in Woodlorton Road, and a motor ambulance came dashing up. I strode along the broad thoroughfare until I sighted a taxicab. I hailed the man and hesitated for a moment, glancing up at the sky.

"Is it going to keep fine?" I asked the driver.

He considered the point for a moment. "Don't fancy there's much more rain about, governor," he replied.

"Then drive to Streatham Hill Station," I directed.

From Streatham Hill I traveled to London Bridge by the electric railway, and from London Bridge I took a taxi to Waterloo. From Waterloo I caught the ten forty train to Upwood, and from the hotel there,

"I do not know, sir," she reminded me quietly.

I removed my glasses and polished them. I am an expert physiognomist, but the girl's impassivity baffled me.

"I will leave it with you before I go away next time," I promised.

"Please put me out a gray tweed golf-suit and stockings."

"Shall you be requiring lunch, sir?" she asked.

"I will lunch at the Golf Club," I told her. "I shall dine at home."

She left me silently and without further remark. When I went upstairs, a few minutes later, my bedroom as usual was spotlessly neat, my golfing clothes laid out without any single omission. I discarded my somewhat heterogeneous articles of attire, donned my golfing habiliments with some care, and made my way to the links.

In the passage of the clubhouse I met the secretary.

"Are you wanting a game this afternoon, Mr. Stanfield?" he asked.

"I should be glad of one," I replied.

"There's a man just come down," he went on, "—four handicap. You will find him in the grill."

I made my way there. Seated at a table alone was Sir Norman Greys, the man who had watched for my arrest, a few hours ago, in Woodlorton Road, Brixton.

SEVEN MEN ACCUSED OF STEALING WHISKEY FROM BLACK DRUG STORE

CATLETTSBURG, Ky., Feb. 22.—Catlettsburg continued in a furor of excitement today as the list of men alleged to be implicated in the Frank Black drug store robbery grew. Seven men had been indicted by the grand jury on evidence supplied by Lou Kennedy, who has made a signed confession implicating himself and six others in the burglary of Black's drug store last Thursday night. According to Mr. Black's statement at that time, 68 pint bottles of bonded whiskey and $12.00 cash were stolen, the whiskey being worth about $235 at druggists' prices.

The seven men indicted by the grand jury are: Colbert Cecil, former employee of a Catlettsburg bank; Estil Rife, former deputy sheriff; John York, taxi driver of Kenova; John Marcum, taxi driver; Lou Kennedy and Less Back, pool room managers, and Curt Stewart, lunch room proprietor. Stewart gave bond immediately after he was arrested. The six others had failed to supply bond at a late hour this afternoon, and were being held in the county jail. The charge against the men is burglary. Bond was fixed at $1,000.

Four Reasons Why You Should Buy Your Ford Car This Month

I.

The unprecedented demand for Ford Cars throughout the winter months has taken the entire output of the Ford plants working at capacity, indicating that the demand this Spring will be far in excess of the number of Ford Cars that can possibly be built.

II.

January was the tenth consecutive month in which retail deliveries exceeded 100,000 Ford Cars and Trucks. Requirements for February, the month when preparations are already under way for Spring business, called for 148,407 Cars and Trucks—more than 24,000 in excess of the number we can possibly produce.

III.

Ford dealers in many parts of the country are already finding it necessary to specify future delivery dates on Ford Products because there are no reserve stocks to draw from.

IV.

Your order placed now will protect you against delay or disappointment later on—It is the only way you can be assured of reasonably prompt delivery.

We consider it important to give you these facts, so that if you are planning to purchase A Ford Car, Truck or Fordson Tractor for use this Spring or Summer you can list your order at once and take advantage of our dealer's first opportunity to make delivery.

IN THE HANDY BOX AT YOUR DRUGGIST

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Miss Wise—Would you please publish what the toll is on ships which pass through the Panama Canal?
X. Y. Z.

On merchant vessels carrying passengers or cargo, $1.20 per net vessel ton—each 100 cubic feet of actual carrying capacity. On vessels in ballast without passengers or cargo, 40 per cent less than the rate of tolls for vessels with passengers or cargo. Upon naval vessels, other than transports, scollers, hospital ships and supply ships, 50 cents per displacement ton. Upon Army and Navy transports, scollers, hospital ships and supply ships, $1.20 per net ton. The vessels to be measured by the above rules are employed in determining the net tonnage of merchant vessels.

Dear Dolly—What do you think of a woman who will put her children off on other people every evening while she runs on the street. Dolly, I wouldn't mind keeping her children, but they are so meddlesome I can hardly put up with them. They meddle into the piano and everything else that they can get into. It looks like their mother would teach them not to meddle with other people's affairs as I don't think anybody wants their piano and other furniture destroyed by other people. Please publish as I expect there are lots of people who have the same trouble with "meddlesome creatures" as I do.

MRS. X. Y. Z.

Don't be too hard on the children. You know that there is not a child living who is going to sit down in the corner and twirl his or her thumbs all evening. We wouldn't want them to do that. If they are old enough to know better don't blame them then, either, because it is their mother's fault if they do not know how to behave. She is probably so busy running around that she hasn't time to teach her children the niceties of refined manners, and the little courtesies of everyday life. I feel sorry for the kiddies, and I hope this mother, and all other mothers who are depending upon their neighbors to rear their children, will remember that as the twig is bent so grows the tree, and she should see that her twigs are trained towards the good, the noble, the true and the beautiful. The idea mother teaches her children to observe the little courtesies as well as the big ones, and as a rule they are a beautiful, happy, merry, uncorrupted, lovable little band of youngsters. I'm for the youngsters every time.

Dear Dolly—To settle an argument was "Over the Hill" shown at the Eastland first and then later at the Eastland? Or was it shown both times at the Eastland?

MOVIE FAX—
"Over the Hill" was shown both times at the Eastland.

Dear Miss Wise—Can you please tell me whether twoed suits will be worn this spring or not and what kind of hat do you think best to wear with twoed?

TIMES READER.
Twoed suits and twoed top coats will be good this spring for general wear, but they are a considered dress-up costumes. Tailored or sport dress-up costumes. Twoed suits with hats are usually worn with twoed hats, although there are girls who wear satin slippers and picture hats with their twoeds. If you want something for dress up occasions, why not get one of the handsome black capes that they are showing now? If you don't like black, get one of the lighter shades. The suits are also quite handsome this spring.

Dear Dolly—When they issue a marriage license, do they take the color of your hair and eyes? Do they put it on the license or not? Are the laws of Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia the same? How old does a girl have to be in West Virginia and Kentucky? Dolly, what color of spring suits would be all right for a girl with dark hair and blue eyes?

MRS. B. W.
You don't have to give the color of your hair and eyes to get a marriage license. You will have to give the names of your parents and the maiden name of your mother, whether you have ever been married before and a few other things quite easy to answer. The girl and boy both have to be 21 in Kentucky and West Virginia before they can secure a license without their parents' consent. I think a dark blue suit would look quite well on you.

WORRIED HUSBAND—I haven't any sympathy for you or "your achin' heart". What you need is a ducking in the Ohio river, and if your wife ever decided to give it to you, I wish you would call me up so I can go down to the flood wall and enjoy the performance.

VIRGINIA—You are paying too much attention to your imaginary troubles. I don't suppose there is a person in the city who gives your past a second thought. People are too busy in this day and age to dwell on things that are gone forever. The world is traveling at such a rapid rate that it is all we can do to keep up, without stopping to hunt for the family skeleton. Now the best thing you can do is to close that chapter of your life, or better still, tear it out, so you will never see it again. Then get busy and get out. Visit your friends and go to places of amusement. If you are a member of any church, get into their societies and attend their meetings. You could also join some of the clubs, or start a little one of your own among your acquaintances. If you just make up your mind that you are going to forget the past and live in the present, and enjoy yourself, you will not be so sad and lonely. If you can't do anything else, you can read. No one will get lonely if they have good books and magazines within easy reach. If you must get away from the house, you might get a job and work for awhile. Do anything but what you suggested.

ROSEBLU—If the child you have in mind is hungry, share your lunch with her. If not, and she has her own lunch, you are not under any obligations to give her yours and I am sure she could not take it away from you if you did not want to give it to her.

SOCIAL NEWS

At the High School Auditorium on Friday afternoon at 2:30 a concert will be given by the Stephen Lindsay Guild of the First Presbyterian Church for the benefit of the new Hopedale Rescue Home, which is nearing completion on Milldale Road, New Boston. Children's tickets are only fifty cents and the program will be especially pleasing to the children as a dainty little minuet dance will be given by four little girls and four little boys.

Everything is being donated for the affair and the Guild is expecting to raise a neat sum from the concert. Those taking part in the program have donated their services and the school board has donated the use of the High School auditorium.

Suffered from Stomach Trouble and Rheumatism. Expresses Gratitude for the Prompt Relief Ka-dik Gave Her.

Mrs. Emma Goss, living at 123 Water Street, Lancaster, O., says: "I formerly suffered with stomach trouble, with occasional attacks of rheumatism; quite frequently I had dizzy spells and felt tired and worn-out all the time; was very nervous and could never sleep at night, which caused me to feel more tired when it was time to get up than before going to bed. Thanks to Ka-dik, I have now completely recovered and feel as well as I ever did, and gratefully acknowledge my thanks for the way it has helped me."

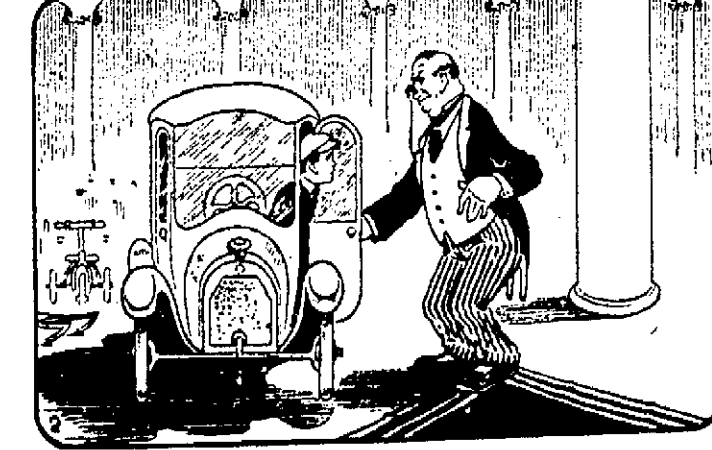

Ka-dik can be obtained in Portsmouth at Fisher & Streich's Drug Store—Advertisement.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

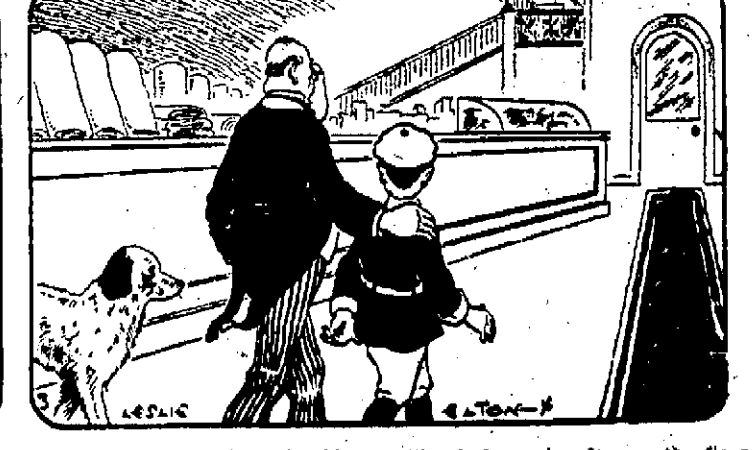

Jack whistled for Flip. He felt very lonely with all of the toys standing perfectly still. As his faithful dog ran up and joined him, Jack decided to go back to the toy auto where he had fallen asleep. Maybe the floorwalker who ordered me out of the store will come back, thought Jack.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

The toy auto was standing just where Jack had left it. He and Flip crawled inside and soon fell asleep. Jack never knew just how long he had been in dreamland before the store opened for business the next day. However, he did know that someone opened the auto door and found him.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

"What are you doing in this auto?" asked a voice. It was the floorwalker. "I fell asleep," replied Jack. "Well," said the floorwalker, "take your dog and run along." Jack was soon out of the wonderful toy department. In Jack Daw's next adventure he takes a trip to wonderful Belgium land.

Court House

Murphy Changes Plea; Sentenced Thomas Murphy, 32 years old, alias Edward McNamara, was sentenced to a term of three years in the penitentiary by Judge Thomas Thursday when the defendant appeared in Common Pleas court and changed his plea from not guilty to guilty on one of six indictments brought against him by the recent grand jury for forgery. The other five indictments were nolle prosequi on motion of Prosecutor Skelton.

Murphy, who boasted following his arrest by the police in this city several days ago that he had been working the bad check business for nine years and had never been caught before, was sentenced on the indictment for forging the name of H. A. Trevilian, of Ashland, to a check in the sum of $57, issued on the First National bank of Russell, Ky., which he was attempting to pass at the Wolf store on Chillicothe street at the time he was apprehended on Jan. 22. He had, earlier in the day, cashed a bogus check in the sum of $38 at the Weber shoe store.

Before pronouncing sentence Judge Thomas told the prisoner that his diplomatic dealing with the prosecutor and the court the past few days in an effort to get off with a light sentence strongly indicated that he has had a checked career, both in the prize ring, which he claimed to have followed until three years ago, when he sustained a broken nose in a bout, and the bigger arena of the courts. Murphy claims Cleveland as his home, and was advised by the court to go to work and earn an honest living upon his release from prison.

Peery Under Arrest

Apprehended at the instance of Sheriff Harry M. Dunham, James W. Peery, formerly of Mt. Joy and this city, is held at Grafton, W. Va., pending his return to Portsmouth to meet an indictment charging him with abandoning his wife and child, who live at Mt. Joy. Peery has consented to return to Ohio without requisition papers, the sheriff was advised in a message telling of the arrest Thursday and an officer will be sent after the prisoner.

Given Another Whirl

The divorce and alimony suit of Dora Benner against Clifford Benner, Soloto Trail couple, which was partially heard last Saturday, was given another whirl in Common Pleas court Thursday when Judge Thomas heard additional evidence and then took the case under advisement.

Hazel Phillips Granted Divorce

Archdeacon Talks About Coue

There was a large and representative congregation in All Saints' church last night when Archdeacon Dodson spoke of his first-hand knowledge of Emil Coue, gained during his visit to Nancy last summer. In his description of Coue's methods the Archdeacon was at pains to insist upon the fact that auto-suggestion was no new discovery but had been practiced for thousands of years. Nor, contrary to the opinion of some, was Coueism a "cure-all." The professor was very careful to tell those who attended his clinics that there were some conditions that his system would not help. Coue said the speaker, does not deny the reality of disease. On the contrary, he advises people to take medical treatment and to submit to the surgeon where necessary. "Do not," said the Archdeacon, "throw the doctor's telephone number away." The presentation of the subject abounded in humor and was eminently sane and sensible. One very important point stressed by the speaker was that Professor Coue does not deny the power and efficacy of the religious life. On the contrary, he is a devout member of the Roman Catholic church and a firm believer in all its doctrines.

Conference On Religion At All Saints'

The first of a series of conferences on religion will be held in All Saints' Church tomorrow, Friday, evening. These conferences will be under the leadership of the Rector and will deal with the great fundamental truths of the faith. The subject of discussion tomorrow will be "God." There are many who hold hazy and indefinite views about the being and nature of God. They cannot understand why, if He exists, certain things are allowed to be. You owe it to yourself to test and prove your faith. Come to these conferences and ask questions if you have doubts. Candidates for confirmation should by all means attend. Boys and girls of High School age welcome. Perfect freedom of discussion will be permitted.

Local Business Men Attend Dollar Day In Huntington; Given A Cordial Reception

As guests of the Huntington Chamber of Commerce, more than a score of Portsmouth business men spent Wednesday in Huntington, the occasion being Dollar Day, a semi-annual affair in the West Virginia city.

An elegant luncheon was served at the Frederick Hotel. The Coffman Floral company which has stores both in Huntington and Portsmouth furnished the floral decorations which were most beautiful. Coffman's also presented each member of the visiting delegation with a

Plans for the proposed erection of a steel plant to represent an outlay of $1,600,000, to be located on the Ohio river, which would give employment to from 600 to 700 workmen, were unfolded at a meeting of local business men held in the Elks' Club Thursday afternoon.

The promoters of the proposed plant are H. P. Bope, president of the American Steel Corporation of Cleveland, R. B. Oliver, general counsel of the company, with offices in Pittsburgh, and W. B. Lawton, financing agent of the company, with offices in Pittsburgh.

The company proposes to build a steel plant that would manufacture the needs of this entire section, providing that $750,000 of preferred and common stock in the company is sold in Portsmouth or immediate vicinity. The company, it is stated, will supply the additional funds to build a plant that when ready for operation would cost $1,600,000, the officials said. It was also stated that buyers of stock would be privileged to buy one share of preferred stock of $100, with 8 percent interest bearing on four shares of common stock at $25 per share.

"This is purely optional with the buyer and these details will come later providing that our proposition is looked upon with favor by your business men," Mr. Lawton told a times man at the meeting. "It is our intention should the plant be built to supply steels users what they need to broaden their business rather than to tell them what they should have."

Mr. Bope stated that the company has a $2,000,000 plant ready for operation in Knoxville, Tenn., and that new plants are in a tentative stage. "That is our mission to Portsmouth. We hope to get a definite expression from your business men if our proposition is accepted the plant here will be operated in a proposed chain of plants."

It was stated that the firm has extensive one and iron holdings in Tennessee and in the Lake Superior regions.

Officials of the company were invited to Portsmouth through the earnest solicitation of Attorney Mark Crawford, who acted as chairman of the meeting and called on those present to express themselves frankly on the project.

Continue The Nation-Wide Round-Up Of Counterfeiters

NEW YORK, February 22.—(By the Associated Press)—Secret service men began today drawing in the strings of a nation-wide net that they expect will ensnare 1,000 members of an international counterfeiting conspiracy that they believe has its tentacles gripped on every important city of the country.

The ring is believed to have manufactured and distributed between one and ten million dollars worth of bogus bills and spurious stamps.

Arrests all over the country with raids centering in Chicago, Detroit, San Francisco, and other big cities were forecast today by those federal officers, who completed last night the jailing of 64 alleged counterfeiters in the metropolitan district. Deprived of its brains, the sleuths believe the organization to be incapacitated.

While the secret service men in this country are tracking the trail they hit upon eight months ago in Detroit, the police of several countries will be hunting the members of the band which extended its operations over three countries with amazing thoroughness. The haunts of its principal members are known, so the secret service men say.

Twenty-one in ball range from $2,500 to ten times that amount and two others were held in Newark, N. J., also under bond.

The raids that fetched the 64—twenty-eight in the last two days—also developed huge stacks of counterfeit bills, stamps, liquor permits and liquor bottle labels besides a complete printing and engraving outfit planted in Greenwich Village. Seven distributing offices were found one within shouting distance of police headquarters on Broome street.

The state of the printing plant indicated that the detectives arrived as the trail was getting cold—disappointment had been started.

Joseph A. Palma, chief of the special squad that barred the conspiracy, said that the chief avenue of distribution was through bootleggers and drug peddlers. Much counterfeit money was palmed off to "bootleg row" while it swung at anchor last month off Highlands, N. J., discharging liquor, he said.

HEAVY DEMAND, LABOR SHORTAGE; TRANSPORTATION DIFFICULTIES ARE PROBLEMS IN THE STEEL MARKET

CLEVELAND, Ohio, February 22.—Iron Trade Review today said:

Facing a demand heavier than it has been at any time since 1920 and handicapped by a labor shortage and transportation difficulties, producers of iron and steel are hard pressed to satisfy the needs of consumers. This situation is reflected not only by the condition of order books, but by the sharp tendency toward higher prices, which during the week extended to pig iron, steel scrap, remanufactured material and finished steel. As a result of price advances Iron Trade Review's composite of fourteen iron and steel products has jumped to $42.57 from $42.24 last week and $41.83 February 7.

Sales of pig iron have attained unusual proportions. At least 70,000 tons of basic was sold in Eastern Pennsylvania. Sales in Western Pennsylvania include 12,000 tons of foundry iron to one company and several lots of 2,000 tons to other consumers. At least one sale has established the basic market at $27.00 valley.

Quotations of 2.10c to 2.15c on steel bars and 2.20c on shapes and plates, base Pittsburgh, seem to be disappearing. Sales of plates and shapes by the leading producer indicates that 2.25c, Pittsburgh now is the ruling quotation for these products for extended delivery.

Plates are in heavy demand as a direct result of recent locomotive, car and oil tank awards. The Baldwin Locomotive Works has placed 22,000 tons with Eastern Pennsylvania mills and 10,000 tons still is pending. The Pennsylvania railroad has placed 5,000 tons of car plates and needs 5,000 tons more. Approximately 10,000 tons have been purchased for gas holders to be built in eastern cities. A Chicago fabricator has taken 7,500 tons of plates for oil storage tanks.

Unusual Production At Eastland Monday

All of next week, starting Monday, February 26 and ending Saturday, March 3, the Eastland Theatre will present "The Theater Producing Company," the only motion picture producing company in the world producing and screening a motion picture at one performance, giving a correct imitation of studio scenes in any of the big studios of Hollywood or New York. Pictures will be made each day on the Eastland stage, with a local cast. Invitations will be extended to any one in the audience who desires to see how they screen. The big producers secure most of their talents from amateur screenings and any one who screens well enough will have their pictures sent in to some of the biggest producers. In addition, group motion photographs will be made of children at each show. The Theater Producing Company carries two experienced cameramen, a well-known director, studio lighting equipment, cleaning-developing and titling material. Printing-toning and coloring machinery is in fact, a complete studio which will be set upon the Eastland stage in full view of the audience. The regular program of motion pictures will also be shown all next week, with shows starting daily at 2, 6:15 and 8:30 p. m.

Divorce Is Granted Without A Contest

The Chillicothe Gazette says: What was expected to be a sensational and warmly contested divorce suit ended in a compromise. Wednesday when Lewis Kedash allowed his wife Emma, to get a divorce without contest.

There was an agreement as to alimony and the home property on McKellar street. She is to give Kedash a certain sum and he is to give her the home and all its furnishings.

The pair were married 34 years ago, at Beaver, Pike county. They have two sons, Earl 32, and Claude 30. Kedash is well known having been in the used car and the taxi business. He had also been a conductor on the B. and O.

The petition is brief and the answer still briefer.
The petition says that Kedash assaulted his wife, beat her and cursed her, and that he associated with other women, making it impossible for her to live with him.

The answer simply denies the charges.

Mrs. Kedash's two sons were in court to testify in her behalf.

"I'll fill you all" (meaning Mrs. Kedash and the two sons) full of shot."

"I'll cut your head off" (meaning Mrs. Kedash).

These were some of the expressions attributed to Kedash by his wife and sons in their testimony, Wednesday.

Earl said that, when 14, because he dropped his father's time book when a table in the house was being cleared to play cards, his father had "worn a peach thimble out on his naked body." Earl added that he had then run away from home.

"When I told my father," continued Earl, "that he had gone too far in beating mother and that she was too old to endure that, he cursed me and said he'd get a gun and fill us all full of shot."

"One time," testified Claude, "father struck mother with a buggy whip."

Mrs. Kedash was granted a divorce on the ground of extreme cruelty.

Some Record

ASHLAND, Feb. 22.—A total of 212 points have been piled up by the Ashland high school Kittens in eleven games thus far this season. While this seems to be rather a big figure, it is made more interesting by the number of points scored against the Kittens, a total of 63.

In these eleven games the Kittens suffered defeat but once and that was at the hands of the Ironton Tigerettes, 10 to 8, while playing girls' rules on a divided floor. It was not a true test of the ability of the Kittens as they in turn trounced the Ironton girls 20 to 15 on the local floor while playing real basketball.

 Your physician will recommend Kellogg's Bran, because it is nature's own relief from constipation. It is scientifically prepared to relieve suffering humanity from constipation and it will do what no other food can do! It will give every sufferer permanent relief if it is eaten regularly—at least two tablespoons daily; as much with each meal in chronic cases!

Oh! My! Such Pain!
 Right across the small of the back or over the kidneys!

It takes you right in the back! Sometimes in the arm, hip or foot. It's all due to an over-abundance of that poison called uric acid. The kidneys are not able to get rid of it. Grip, colds, and chills are mighty hard on the kidneys. The blood is filled with poison and the kidneys break down. Such conditions you can readily overcome, and prolong life by taking the advice of Doctor Pierce, which is, "Keep the kidneys in good order." Avoid too much meat, alcohol or tea. Drink plenty of pure water, preferably hot water, before meals, and drive the uric acid out of the system by taking "Anuric," (anti-uric-acid). This can be obtained at any drug store, in tablet form.
 Ask for Dr. Pierce's An-uric (kidney and backache remedy). Folks everywhere endorse it.
 Delphos, Ohio—"I had doctored a good deal for ten years. I often took different kinds of medicine for kidneys or bladder trouble, but I never got any better. Sometimes I would be disturbed three or four times at night, never any pain, just uneasiness. I also had a soreness in my back and an awful weak back. I sent for a trial of Dr. Pierce's Anuric (Kidney and Backache) Tablets and felt better from the first, so I went to the drug store and got a full size package and never had any more trouble. After that I can say 'Anuric' is just as represented."—Mrs. C. L. Cramer, Route 1.
 Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package of Anuric. Write Dr. Pierce for free medical advice.—Advertisement.

Your Heritage of Music
 All of the hopes, the fears, the joys and the sorrows that humanity has expressed in music have become the inheritance—not of the favored few but the many—through the instrumentality of the Victrola and Victor records.
 The music of the past, the music of today, the music of tomorrow, the music whistled beneath your window or sung to the stars of the desert—these are yours to choose at any time, at a moment's notice—at your own fireside.
 The music of all lands, of all times, and of all peoples! There is no other instrument of any kind that offers so infinite a variety of musical satisfaction as the Victrola does, but it is well to remember that all these thousands of Victor records were made to play on Victor instruments.

Damage estimated at $15,000 was caused by fire of unidentified origin that destroyed the machine and blacksmith shops and acetylene welding department of the Simpson Bros. foundry and machine shop industry in the East End about eleven o'clock last night. Simpson Bros., have about $6,000 insurance which makes their net loss around $9,000. The burned departments contained valuable machinery which cannot be salvaged, the best making it unfit for use. Good work by the firemen prevented the flames from destroying the foundry building and office structure. The foundry occupied the east of the building destroyed while the office is a small frame building at the northwest corner of the destroyed building. There is a space of about fifty feet between the foundry and the former machine shop and this also helped in preventing the spread of the fire.
 John Simpson, a member of the firm today said that plans would be made at once for a new and modern building to replace the one destroyed. The fire was discovered about eleven o'clock when the flames were breaking out through the roof of the building. An alarm from box 154 Eleventh and Monroe streets called the Hilltop and East end firemen and after some difficulty in loring hose from fire hydrants some distance from the fire they had several streams on the blaze. One stream was kept playing on the foundry building and the other small frame structure. The north side of the burning building occupied by the machinery was covered with tin which prevented the flames from shooting out on that side. The large frame building burned rapidly, but it did not take the firemen long to get the fire under control after they got several lines of hose to working. They spent considerable time at the scene to be sure that there was no chance of fire breaking out in some nearby building where a stray spark might have lodged. It was after midnight when they returned to their stations.
 The Simpson Bros. plant is located just north of the railroad tracks and west of the Lawrence Run viaduct. The building destroyed was built in 1881, the same time as the larger or foundry structure.
 Merchant Policemen E. W. Taylor says that he made his usual inspection of the building about eight o'clock and did not see any sign of fire at that time. Reports this morning were that sparks had been seen arising from the vicinity of the building an hour before the flames burst through the roof but it was thought that they were coming from the smokestack. The only adjoining property which was scorched. All records were carried from the office to a place of safety when it seemed the whole plant would be wiped out.
 John Simpson who lives at 1109 Monroe street, was awakened by the fire trucks stopping near his home and he was soon on the fire scene. Charles Simpson, the other member of the firm did not know of the fire until he arrived at the plant this morning. He was staying with relatives on Lincoln street, heard the alarm and looking out of a second story window saw the bright glare in the sky but did not investigate farther. He was one of the men surprised men in the city when he arrived at the plant this morning and found the machine shop building in ashes and the machinery a mass of twisted steel.
 The glare from the fire brightened the sky for about a half hour and many persons visited the scene. Many assisted in stretching the long line of hose which tied up traffic on the main car line for about an hour.

Wells To Go Under Wing Of Biddy Bishop

(Chillicothe Gazette)
Frankie Wells, local lightweight boxer, is preparing to take a move which ought for once and all, to silence his critics. After his appearance at the March 14 bout here, Frankie will be under the wing of Biddy Bishop, Cincinnati manager, who handles Anthony Downey and K. O. Marx.

Wells has been severely censured, many times, for his apparent lack of interest in training, and yet he has always come through on top. If his natural ability will carry him along this way, it is hard to say just where he will stop when a man like Bishop, whose code and creed is "unbroken training" and who insists on it from every one of his boys, gets hold of Wells.

HERE'S CHANCE, SELECTS!

Alamoser, Steve Mahoney and Price have played together for four years. Another player is Reinhardt who led the Columbus high school players in scoring for two years. Manager Jude Baesman of the Selects is urged to communicate with J. W. Sullivan of 1061 Hamlet street, Columbus, relative to a game with this fast quintet.

Billy Evans Says

Does trick stuff in sport hurt one's game?

Willie Hoppe, famous billiard champion, is convinced that trick stuff is bad for any expert who desires to excel in straight play.

This fact was forcibly brought out during the conversation I recently had with Hoppe while his partner, Charley Peterson, was performing many amazing feats with the ivory.

"Show me a shot I cannot make," is Peterson's slogan. I have the word of Hoppe that no one has ever figured out a shot for which Peterson cannot devise a way of executing. He can make a so-called impossible shot in billiards, not in one way, but three or four.

I asked Hoppe if he did much trick stuff.

"Very little," he replied. "I much prefer to watch shot and since, I cannot do that line as well I much prefer to remain a spectator. I am positive that trick stuff hurts a billiard player, throws him off his stroke. In match play no billiardist resorts to trick stuff, hence it retards rather than helps."

Hoppe, who enjoys golf, says there is no doubt in his mind but that Joe Kirkwood would be a much greater golfer if he confined himself to straight play and cut loose from his bag of tricks. Hoppe's remark that a player never resorted to trick stuff in match play recalled an incident I saw in tournament play with Kirkwood enacting the leading role.

A few days prior to the opening of the tournament, Kirkwood had put on his trick exhibition. In the tournament play his lie was just such as used for one of his trick shots. I wondered how he would play the shot as it was a rather difficult lie.

He played it in the regular manner, getting on the green in nice style. Then he took another ball placed it in the same position and, facing away from the bunker, drove the ball on the green in trick style, the ball trickling to within a few inches of the hole.

For a baseball case I have in mind Allau Sothoron. Few big league pitchers have more stuff than did Sothoron, yet Sothoron failed to be a great pitcher because he refused to stick to a distinct style of delivery.

Any time Sothoron got a commanding lead, he would start to experiment. He would use a sidearm delivery, then a cross-fire, but an overhand ball, then a splitter, and so on down the line. He had a bag full of pitching tricks that he often brought into play in league competition, but they always got him into trouble. When Sothoron stuck to his regular style he was one of the hardest pitchers in the American League to beat.

What Of Spring?

(Chillicothe Gazette)
Coach Houser was heard to express the wish, recently, that the basketball season were over. Oh, staid after obstacle has been thrown in the path of a successful year, and in a way the loss of two of the players through the study route is one for which he was in no measure to blame.

Houser has plans, in the spring, for a baseball team and a track team. It will be a resumption, after a lapse of almost a decade, of these two sports in the local high school. Both will be organized and started out, and the one which shows best will be given the most attention, while the other is let slide.

It is suggested that should either a track team or a baseball team show promising attitude, a weather eye be kept on the individual stars and their studies, and proper steps be taken to see that they keep up in their studies. Nothing discourages a coach or team more than to lose their best players through the low grade route.

HONORING WASHINGTON

ONCE a year, at least, Americans pay honor to the memory of Washington. We recount his historic services and his magnificent qualities. We praise his patience, his tirelessness, his courage, his strength of will, his unselfishness, his calmness, his clear-mindedness.

In lauding these, his virtues, we mark ourselves as a people who know what is good and recognize merit when we see it.

How would it be, for a change, to honor Washington in deeds rather than in words? How would it be, for a change, instead of merely praising Washington's varied qualities of strength of mind, and heart, and soul, to emulate them?

If the list seems rather long, how would it be, for a start, to choose two or three—or even one—of the most easily attainable of the attributes that distinguished the founder?

We would be much happier and more useful if we were to pattern our conduct after Washington for a little while.

CUSTOM

SEVERAL widely-circulated books on polite behavior and the customs of fashionable society have lately been published, but none has anything to say on the etiquette of the hold-up. The traditional method of procedure was simple. The man with the pistol said "Hands up" and his victim put them up, keeping them elevated more or less tremulously until the holdup man had gone through his pockets and decamped. Most persons without special instruction on the subject would instinctively put hands up in such an emergency without the command from the highwayman, because it seems the proper thing to do. But that custom appears to be passe. To put hands up any more is to commit a social solecism. "Hands down" is now the accepted procedure, sometimes reinforced by the adjuration, "and keep 'em down." There's a reason.

The highwaymen, who in accord with the spirit of the times have been studying "efficiency," have discovered that the "hands up" business attracts too much attention. It is an illustration of "high visibility." Ever unostentatious, preferring to pursue their profession without becoming conspicuous, modern footpads have changed their tactics. Scholars say there is a logical reason behind every custom, "Hands down" is due to an incident which caused the capture of a pair of highwaymen. A pedestrian at a distance observed the victim's elevated palms, which he interpreted as a signal of distress and called the police. Since then several victims have received the command, "Don't put your hands up. Hands down and keep them down."

It is true that in one or two instances lately persons thus accosted have refused to abide by the conventions and, instead of putting their hands either up or down, have launched out vigorously with the right and the left and put their assailants to flight. But this is not a method that finds favor with the life and accident insurance companies. In the main it will be found safest to conform to custom, whatever that custom.

MANUFACTURING SUNSHINE

FOR years there have been efforts to produce rain by artificial means. Regions afflicted with drought have paid good hard coin to experimenters but where results were obtained it is not at all certain that they were due to the efforts of the operators. The rain might have—probably would have—come anyway. However, at McCook Field at Dayton scientific experiments have been conducted in co-operation with the army air service which are announced to have produced rain. The clouds were made to disappear and precipitate their moisture. The result was obtained by dropping electrically charged sand on the clouds from airplanes.

The chief effect observed was not in the amount of moisture precipitated but in dissipating the clouds and value for this is forecast in the removal of fogs over cities. The experimenters foresee a practical and immediate benefit in the means of making mists, which often obscure flying fields, disappear at will. The time taken to destroy the clouds and bring out the sun, presumably, rarely exceeded to minutes.

While rain has been precipitated in small quantity the tests do not seem to offer much hope for relief in cases of drought when the sky remains brassy. Since clouds are required on which to operate and they must also contain moisture both conditions are likely to be absent when rain is most needed. But if fogs can be removed at will the invention will be of great value in many localities since the system seems not difficult to put into effect provided the proper appliances are available.

Germans say they propose to have a showdown in the Ruhr at the earliest possible moment. From this distance it looks like they already had it.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MCINTIRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—No child life is so empty and lonely as that of the theatrical youngster. Their human contact is only with their parents, the sea of faces they see over the footlights and their private tutors.

They have not learned the art of the healthy romp. When they mingle with other children they are completely out of the picture. Age and sophistication come before they have donned long trousers and dresses.

There is an illustrative incident in the employment of a group of stage mothers of a skilled playground instructor. She was asked to inspire the children to frolic. A hall was rented on Seventh Avenue, but at the end of two weeks the instructor resigned. She said the youngsters were entirely too old for their years and cared nothing for play.

Too, there is a hesitation among parents out of the profession in permitting their offspring to come in touch with the little people of the footlights. This is quite unfair. I have never seen more orderly or well behaved children in any station than those whose parents exploit them.

There are many Good Samaritans in New York, but now and then one boy who is not working at his trade. The other night a rather elderly gentleman was nearing home on West 7th Street. He was overcome with a fainting spell and sank to the pavement. A Good Samaritan was at his elbow and helped him to his lodgings. He helped him to bed and fetched him a cooling draught of water. The next morning servants found the old gentleman in a coma. His money, jewelry and other valuables had vanished and he was suffering from an overdose of chloral.

There are many bright young stage door Jolus who have been waiting vainly at the stage door for the petite and charming Frances Starr. The other day they were rather rudely shocked. The newspapers announced that in the cast of a Columbia university play was William Haskell Coffin, Jr., the son of Miss Starr, and her husband, William Haskell Coffin, the magazine illustrator. Young Mr. Coffin is in his sophomore year.

Madame Neuralgia, the palatine stoppin' at the New Palace hotel, told Fawn Lippincott she'd marry a dark, romantic looking fellow an' be very happy for several days. "Wait till I phone my wife an' tell her where my car can be found," said Lark. "And I'd say, when Lark offered him a drink."

Doc Koko's KOLUM

Marines' Rymn
From the halls of Montezuma
To the shores of Tripoli
We fight our country's battles
On the land as on the sea.
First to fight for right and freedom
And to keep our honor clean.
We are proud to claim the title
Of the United States Marine.

Our flag's unfurled to every breeze
From dawn to setting sun;
We have fought in every clime or place

Where we could take a gun;
In the snow of far-off northern lands
And in sunny tropic scenes.
You will find us always on the job—
The United States Marines.

Here's health to you, and to our corps,
Which we are proud to serve;
In many a strife we have fought for life

And never lost our nerve;
If the Army and the Navy
Ever look on heaven's scenes
They will find the streets are guarded by
The United States Marines.

The Thrifty Scot
Dix: I wonder why a Scotchman always says "hoo" for "have"?
Dix: "Possibly it's on account of his thrift—he saves a 'v' every time he does it!"—Boston Transcript.

He (indignantly): "You married me for my money!"
She (sweetly): "Well, dear, what else had you?"

Nemesis
The class in mythology was having a hearing.
"Who was Nemesis?" demanded the professor.
"A bill collector," faltered the student addressed.
And the professor decided to let it go at that.

There To Stay
The pile of flints still to be broken was a very large one, thought the stone-breaker, as he gazed at it disconsolately between his bites at a large sandwich of bread and cheese. A minister came along and gave him a cheery "Good-morning," remarking afterward that he had a deal of work to get through yet.

"Aye," said the enter, "them stones are like the Ten Commandments."
"Why so?" inquired the genial parson.
"You can go on breaking 'em," came the reply, "but you can't never get rid of 'em."—The Christian-Evangelist (St. Louis).

GOOD MANNERS

AT a large social gathering—say a reception—the guests quite properly chat with one another and even establish lasting acquaintanceship without the formality of a regular introduction. The very fact that another, like one's self, has been invited may be interpreted as an endorsement by the host.

Got It Twisted

Bishop Chauncey Brewster said at a dinner in Hartford:
"Across the herring pond, bishops rank with peers. It isn't plain 'bishop'—it's 'my lord bishop' over there."
"An American bishop went to stay with some friends in London. The boy who carried up the shaving water was carefully instructed beforehand in the ceremonious form of address that is de rigueur with bishops. This boy, much awed, duly knocked at the prelate's door.
"Yes?" who's there?" asked the bishop, waking.
"It's only the lord, my boy, with the shaving water," a thin little treble voice answered.
